Many people contributed in one way or another to the success of this book. I gratefully acknowledge all who helped make this writing possible. I would especially like to thank the following:

Dr. Victor A. Yanchick, Dean of the University of Oklahoma College of Pharmacy, allowed me the opportunity to write this book, and I especially thank him for his interview creating Chapter X, "Today and Tomorrow," as the capstone for this work.

Associate Dean H. Richard Shough provided a time line of the College's history as a starting point for this book, and he helped tremendously with the College archives.

Robert J. Holt, Director of Continuing Education, served admirably as my editor, refining the text when needed and preparing the final manuscript for publication.

Others who provided enormous assistance include Parke Largent, who is the Student Services Director for the University of Oklahoma College of Pharmacy; Jack L. Wagner, cataloger, and Barbara B. Peshel, Monographic Services, both of whom assisted in research at the Robert M. Bird Library at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, Oklahoma City; John R. Lovett, librarian, and Charles Rand, archivist, who helped with the Western History Collections at the University of Oklahoma main campus in Norman; and Kenny Franks of the Oklahoma Heritage Association.
